She will share the latest food trends that are capturing student's attention and $$$. For more details, go to our Webinars page.

6. Don't Delay! Submit Your Award Nominations Today

Recognize your colleague today for the Employee of the Year, Manager of the Year and Director of the Year awards. Nominations are being accepted online or to your State President until March 1, 2019. All state, regional and national winners will be recognized at the Red Carpet Awards Ceremony at SNA's 2019 Annual National Conference in St. Louis, MO.

7. Request for Proposals: 2019 School Breakfast Leadership Institute

No Kid Hungry is now accepting proposals for its second School Breakfast Leadership Institute to be held June 11-12 in New Orleans. Proposals are due March 6. Selected state teams will receive a $50,000 grant to implement a comprehensive action plan to expand access to school breakfast within their state. Learn more about the Institute and view the RFP here.

8. Latest Journal of Child Nutrition & Management Online Now; Share Your Expertise on Special Diets

From the management of food allergies in schools to farm-to-school product purchasing, the Fall 2018 edition of the Journal of Child Nutrition & Management covers a wide range of research articles that are applicable to your school kitchens. JCN&M, which publishes every spring and fall, is your source for research and evidence-based information to help guide decisions.

Because special diets are a multi-faceted topic that interests many parties, the upcoming Spring 2019 edition will be themed with this in mind. And the publication is currently seeking submissions from anyone who may have research or a unique solution to accommodating special diets. Check out the flyer to learn more.

9. USDA Announces Final Rule on School Meal Flexibilities

On Thursday, December 6, 2018, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced its final rule on school meal flexibilities. The final rule maintains Target 1 sodium limits for school meals through SY 2023-24, with Target 2 sodium limits taking effect in SY 2024-25 and the Final Target eliminated. It also restores the mandate that at least half of grains offered with school meals be whole-grain-rich, allowing schools to occasionally serve a few refined grain options, as needed, without having to apply for a waiver. In addition, the rule makes permanent the current option to offer flavored 1% milk.

You can read USDA's press release here and read the final rule here.

10. SNA Announces 2019 Josephine Martin National Policy Fellow

Andrea Akerman, an SNA member and cafeteria manager at Lincoln Middle School in Rockford, Illinois, was named the 2019 Josephine Martin National Policy Fellow. Founded in honor of Dr. Josephine Martin, a pioneer in the field of school nutrition, the fellowship provides up to $3,000 to cover expenses for travel to SNA's annual Legislative Action Conference (LAC) in Washington, D.C.

Ms. Akerman is a passionate advocate for school meals programs and wants to attend LAC to learn how to more effectively communicate with elected officials and to exchange ideas with school nutrition professionals from around the country. During the annual "Charge to the Hill," she plans to speak with her Member of Congress about the importance of nutrition education, as well as Breakfast After the Bell.

11. SNA Submitted Comment on Proposed Public Charge Rule

SNA commented on a proposed rule changing the criteria the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) considers when establishing whether an immigrant is inadmissible on public charge grounds. Under the proposed change, DHS would consider participation in a number of federal programs, including the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), as evidence that an applicant for admission, extension of stay, change of status or adjustment of status is inadmissible under section 212(a)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

In its letter, SNA expressed its opposition to this proposed rule change, as well as the concern that it would result in children going hungry during the school day. Though benefits offered through the National School Lunch Program (NSLP) and the School Breakfast Program (SBP) are not included in the proposed rule, eligibility for these programs can be established through direct certification of families participating in SNAP. Fear and confusion resulting from the proposed rule could also deter families from submitting applications for free or reduced-price meals, and anecdotal reports from school nutrition professionals serving communities with large immigrant populations suggest that families are increasingly hesitant to apply for these critical benefits.

12. FNS Provides Update on Food Crediting for Child Nutrition Programs

In a new policy memo, the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) detailed its progress updating the food crediting system for all Child Nutrition Programs (CNPs), including NSLP, SBP, Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) and Summer Food Service Program (SFSP).

FNS issued a Request for Information in December 2017, seeking public input about the food crediting system and specific foods of interest to stakeholders; respondents were asked for recommendations to make crediting more simple, fair and transparent. SNA responded to this request with a letter replying to the each of the agency's questions.

Based on feedback received and its research into potential benefits, FNS will now allow shelf-stable, dried and semi-dried meat, poultry and seafood snacks to credit towards the meat component in a reimbursable meal or snack, as well as coconut, hominy, popcorn, surimi seafood and tempeh. The agency will also publish new guidance to allow crediting vegetables disguised as other food components or not provided in traditional forms, for example: noodles or pasta made from vegetables, including legumes.
